

Sir/Ms.

I am concerned that the quality of life that the State of Indiana has brought to my family since it's enactment of the Telephone Privacy Act will be seriously eroded by any federal uniform act or change. A person's home should not be subject to arbitrary interference and that is exactly what happened almost every night, including weekends before Indiana's law. Some nights we fielded several calls, some from the most persistent and rude people you would ever hope to evade. Please do not lessen the protections we enjoy in Indiana.
